Celestial Earth Minerals & Mineral of The Month Club

January 2015

Dear David A.,

See what we have in store for you this month...

Chrysocolla -Peru

Featured Mineral:

Love, love , love this Chrysocolla!

This beauty is from the Acari Copper Mine in Caraveli Province, Arequipa Department, Peru. Chrysocolla is a secondary mineral often associated with azurite, malachite, cuprite, limonite , and quartz. A few of our specimens clearly show a thin layer of fibrous malachite.

Coming in February...

Our featured mineral next month will be wulfenite, an uncommon lead molybdate that is widely collected for its well-formed crystals and distinctive, yellow-orange colors. These specimens are from a classic wulfenite locality-the Ojuela Mine in Mapimí, Durango, Mexico. We have selected some very well-developed and intensely colored wulfenite specimens that will be available on the platinum - level.

Tidbit... Wulfenite is pronounced WOOL-fen-ite and is named after Austrian mineralogist and Jesuit priest Franz Xavier von Wulfen (1728-1805). Wulfenite has also been known as "Gelbbleierz," "yellow lead spar," "yellow lead ore," "molybdate of lead," "molybdenated lead ore," "chillagite," and "carinthite".

As always we will have in-depth information for you to read more about wulfenite in our prized write-up.

Blessings from Dimitri, Mary, Christine, and Lora,
