GoFundMe Special Campaign for Scott Kleine

Every now and then, the mineral community is asked to rally around one of our own and this has unfortunately happened once again. Scott Kleine, one of the friendliest and most knowledgeable dealers in the mineral business has been stricken with a life threatening illness and is in dire need of our assistance. Most everyone who has been to the shows in Tucson and Denver knows him well and he has been a friend of mine for well over two decades. Scott is currently facing an uphill battle in the hospital in Reno, Nevada and a special GoFundMe webpage has been established by his friends to help offset some of the enormous medical expenses he will undoubtedly be facing at the worst possible time with all the show closures. If you know Scott, you know the size of his heart and love for our hobby. Any help you can give will be immensely appreciated. The link is below. To help in the raising of funds, I will match any donation made with an equal credit towards items on the Exceptional Minerals.com website. For example: $500 donated will equal a $500 credit towards any mineral specimen of your choice. There is no limit up to half the value of the item you choose. Thank you for your consideration.
